From Their Excellencies

Greetings all,

Let us begin by thanking all those who aided in our investiture. Sasha and her crew of decorators who beautified the hall and created a place suitable, Warmin and the kitchen staff who provided a feast both plentiful and varied, the instructors who's classes enlightened, and, foremost, Rois who served as autocrat and found such a great site.

Our congratulations to Joaquin and French who were recognized by the chirugenate at Stags Con. Such are the rewards of travel, hard work and service. The months ahead will provide many opportunities for travel and we encourage you to avail yourselves. We will be traveling extensively and will welcome your company whenever you are willing to share it. On the fourth day of December we will be hosting the St. Steven's Day celebration in our home and are inviting you to come as you were. Further information is forthcoming.

It is the custom in the Outlands to use a single word to rally. War and Victory we will leave to others, choosing scutage as our own. Scutage is the duty of every noble to provide their liege lord with forty days service each year. When we choose to become members we become also nobles in the court of the Outlands, and it is to the Outlands that we ask you provide scutage. Discharging this obligation will be simple for many of you for it requires only that you continue to do as you have. What counts toward scutage? Attendance at events and practices, construction of works that benefit our society, labors that advance it. Those who exceed this obligation are worthy of commendation, and those who do not, of encouragement. If all our membership would only give so much we would all be enriched thereby.

a suitable bank is found
There were no receipts from lunch from Investiture

Scribe: Nothing new. Still looking for blank scrolls.

And then nothing happended...

Upcoming Events

Saint Stephens Day

Time: Twoish
Place: The Home of the Baron and Baroness, 10704 Fury Lane.
Fee: A toy, possibly two, three would be really neat
Theme: Come as you were.

This is the moment to relieve the magic of your first time with the SCA. The majestic tunics made of Army blankets; shirts made of the finest linen a bed sheet has to offer. This is a moment to relive being a fair maiden whose bodice struggles to conceal her modesty. It is a time to be not-so-perfect, relax, and enjoy.

There will also be an SCA Garage Sell. This will also be a time to sell, buy or trade your unused, un-needed items. Tables will be available for those who wish to sell or trade their wares.

There will be a Christmas Dinner more to follow.

The Masquerade

Date: More details to follow
